

6516209407.txt

Satellite radio has the same right to transmit local news, weather, and traffic as any cable TV station has in reporting stories from individual cities. If the FCC rules that satellite radio can no longer transmit local information, then CNN will logically have to refrain from reporting any news story that is not federal in nature.

Such restrictions amounts to a grievous violation of 1st Amendment rights.